

OpenSource Advisors re-launches; Focus on project excellence

Needham, MA, May 2008 — We're Back! OpenSource Advisors (OSA) today announced that it has re-launched operations as independent consulting firm. OpenSource Advisors, a privately-held business and technology services firm based in Needham, MA will focus on the delivery of measurable enhancements for our clients. OSA has delivered business process, open source integration, creative media solutions, and commercial product implementation management of enterprise resource planning (ERP), Business Intelligence, and Customer Relationship Planning (CRM) for clients in markets including Boston, Chicago, New York and Washington D.C.

"In 2007 OSA merged business operations with a West Coast consulting firm with the goal of delivering solutions to an expanded national client base. OpenSource Advisors is known for its highly qualified and competent professional staff, its superior consulting capabilities, collaborative approach and achievement of client-defined goals, but it came apparent that the business philosophies of the combined entities inhibited the desired results. The ability to deliver focused, flexible solutions is core to my professional philosophy." said OSA founder Paul Campbell.

With this in mind, OSA has re-launched its operations as an independent consulting organization whose brand is known for architecting solutions and managing the project details required to deliver exceptional solutions for clients.

About OpenSource Advisors (OSA)

OpenSource Advisors is a business and technology services firm founded in 2004, specializing in business process engineering supported by enterprise centric open source strategy and solutions and the integration of advanced technologies. OSA enables clients to obtain measurable ROI through process change and leveraging scalable open solutions with existing enterprise applications. For more information, please see: www.opensourceadvisors.com